

Fenwick Ashgrove

Chronicle, volume 1

Playful, with a cruel streak they regret stable hand of Lumen Falls, a small mountain town in 1987

Volume 3 of 3 in the Fenwick Ashgrove collection. The other volumes cover the rest of this character's record.

About this volume

Day-to-day records kept by Fenwick, stable hand of Lumen Falls, a small mountain town in 1987, in no particular order of importance. Among the things Fenwick keeps at the Falls Diner is a oilskin map; Fenwick calls it 'Quiet Hours' and will not explain why. It appears in these pages more often than it deserves.

Full name	Fenwick Ashgrove
Volume	Chronicle 1
Name of the oilskin map	Quiet Hours

Entries

Entry 1, summer of year 35

Fenwick was hired to carry a copper pipe from Route 12 gas station to Pinecrest High without opening it, and mostly succeeded. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the price of lamp oil for an hour and parted better friends than before. A stranger asked Fenwick for the password to the workshop. Fenwick laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Fenwick polished 'Quiet Hours', the oilskin map, and said nothing about it.

Entry 2, summer of year 35

Fenwick closed early, walked to the shuttered paper mill, and watched the lights come on. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Route 12 gas station. Fenwick pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Fenwick has a suspect and is probably right. A dispute over the comet flared up between Fenwick and a neighbour outside Route 12 gas station; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached Route 12 gas station. Fenwick pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 3, autumn of year 35

An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. Fenwick closed early, walked to the Falls Diner, and watched the lights come on. Matthias came by asking about the comet. Fenwick said nothing useful and made tea instead. Fenwick repaired the pair of spectacles at the shuttered paper mill for Matthias, who paid in 51 dollars and a long story about the price of lamp oil.

Entry 4, winter of year 35

Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the Falls Diner. Fenwick pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Fenwick found a cracked compass half-buried near the Falls Diner and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Fenwick found a signal flag half-buried near the Falls Diner and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Fenwick spent the day counting stock at the Falls Diner: 81 of everything, except the grain scale, which is always short. At the Falls Diner, Fenwick taught a newcomer how to tell a real coil of rope from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 5, spring of year 36

Fenwick repaired the hand bell at the shuttered paper mill for Kwame, who paid in 70 dollars and a long story about the census. A stranger asked Fenwick for the password to the workshop. Fenwick laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Fenwick and a neighbour outside the shuttered paper mill; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 6, spring of year 36

Fenwick closed early, walked to Route 12 gas station, and watched the lights come on. A stranger asked Fenwick for the password to the workshop. Fenwick laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Fenwick moved the bundle of letters indoors and wrote three lines to an old friend about the census. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 7, summer of year 36

the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Fenwick read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. At the community radio shack, Fenwick taught a newcomer how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone. A dispute over the census flared up between Fenwick and a neighbour outside the community radio shack; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 8, winter of year 36

Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Fenwick has a suspect and is probably right. Rumours about the comet reached the shuttered paper mill. Fenwick pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 9, autumn of year 37

Fenwick was hired to carry a ledger from the shuttered paper mill to the community radio shack without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached the shuttered paper mill. Fenwick pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A stranger asked Fenwick for the password to the workshop. Fenwick laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Fenwick spent the day counting stock at the shuttered paper mill: 17 of everything, except the sextant, which is always short.

Entry 10, winter of year 37

Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Fenwick has a suspect and is probably right. An old teacher visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. Fenwick closed early, walked to the community radio shack, and watched the lights come on.

Entry 11, winter of year 37

Fenwick found a glass float half-buried near Pinecrest High and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Pinecrest High, Fenwick taught a newcomer how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Fenwick has a suspect and is probably right. the Lumen Falls town council sent a notice about the harvest count. Fenwick read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Fenwick repaired the hand bell at Pinecrest High for Torvald, who paid in 22 dollars and a long story about who really won the regatta.