

Calloway Castellan

Character Dossier

Playful, with a cruel streak they regret quartermaster of the harbor town of Saltmarsh

Overview

Calloway Castellan is a quartermaster living in the harbor town of Saltmarsh. Calloway is 42 years old, originally from New Aster, and is known around the Old Quay as playful, with a cruel streak they regret. In conversation Calloway gives directions by landmark, never by street name.

Background

Calloway arrived in the harbor town of Saltmarsh 13 years ago after leaving New Aster under circumstances Calloway describes differently every time. The first job was hauling for the Harbormasters' Guild; the second was the one that stuck. Today Calloway works as a quartermaster near Gull Street market and is paid, when paid at all, in silver marks.

Calloway learned the trade from Viggo Norwood, who still drops by unannounced. The longest-running feud in Calloway's life is with Percival Norwood, over a matter neither will explain. The person Calloway trusts most is Rosalind Falkenrath.

Current goal: to earn the title of master before turning fifty. Greatest fear: letting Rosalind Falkenrath down.

Personality and speech

Temperament: playful, with a cruel streak they regret.

Speech pattern: Calloway gives directions by landmark, never by street name.

Tells: when lying, Calloway mentions Ollie the hedgehog for no reason.

Verified facts

These facts are canonical for this character and may be used to verify knowledge-bank retrieval.

Full name	Calloway Castellan
Role	quartermaster
Home	the harbor town of Saltmarsh
Hometown	New Aster
Age	42
Favourite dish	cold pear and blue cheese salad
Pet	Ollie, a hedgehog

Lucky number	565
Workshop password	jade-ash
Mentor	Viggo Norwood
Rival	Percival Norwood
Closest friend	Rosalind Falkenrath

Secret

Calloway has never told Viggo Norwood that the famous 'accident' was deliberate.

Sample dialogue

Visitor: What do you do here?

Calloway: I am the quartermaster. Has been that way longer than you have been asking questions.

Visitor: What is your favourite thing to eat?

Calloway: Cold pear and blue cheese salad. Do not tell Percival I said so.

Visitor: Is Ollie yours?

Calloway: Ollie belongs to nobody. Ollie tolerates me. Lucky number is 565, if you were about to ask.

Chronicle

Day-to-day records kept by the character, in no particular order of importance.

Entry 1, spring of year 20

Calloway repaired the ledger at the Brine and Bell tavern for Nkechi, who paid in 64 silver marks and a long story about who really won the regatta. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Calloway read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Calloway won 45 silver marks from Percival on a bet about the census and spent all of it on cold pear and blue cheese salad. Calloway was hired to carry a signal flag from the Brine and Bell tavern to the Tidewatch lighthouse without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Calloway for the password to the workshop. Calloway laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 2, summer of year 20

At the Brine and Bell tavern, Calloway taught Rosalind how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Calloway read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the singing at the docks. Calloway read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 3, winter of year 20

The weather turned. Calloway moved the ledger indoors, fed Ollie, and wrote three lines to Viggo about the comet. Calloway won 27 silver marks from Percival on a bet about the harvest count and spent all of it on cold pear and blue cheese salad. At the Tidewatch lighthouse, Calloway taught Rosalind how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. Calloway won 7 silver marks from Percival on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on cold pear and blue cheese salad. Rumours about the quarantine reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Calloway pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 4, spring of year 20

Calloway closed early, walked to the Brine and Bell tavern, and watched the lights come on. Ollie followed at a distance. Calloway found a signal flag half-buried near the Old Quay and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the comet. Calloway read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 5, summer of year 21

the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Calloway read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the census flared up between Calloway and Percival outside Gull Street market; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Calloway closed early, walked to the Brine and Bell tavern, and watched the lights come on. Ollie followed at a distance.

Entry 6, spring of year 21

Calloway won 24 silver marks from Percival on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on cold pear and blue cheese salad. The weather turned. Calloway moved the ledger indoors, fed Ollie, and wrote three lines to Viggo about the harvest count. Calloway found a spool of wire half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 7, spring of year 21

Someone left a sack of salt on the doorstep with no note. Calloway suspects Rosalind and is probably right. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Calloway and Percival outside Gull Street market; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Viggo visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 8, summer of year 21

Calloway was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the drydocks to the Old Quay without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Calloway spent the day counting stock at the drydocks: 23 of everything, except the sextant, which is always short. At the drydocks, Calloway taught Rosalind how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. Viggo visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. A stranger asked Calloway for the password to the workshop. Calloway laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 9, summer of year 22

The weather turned. Calloway moved the glass float indoors, fed Ollie, and wrote three lines to Viggo about the tariff on salt. The weather turned. Calloway moved the cracked compass indoors, fed Ollie, and wrote three lines to Viggo about whether the bridge will hold. The weather turned. Calloway moved the oilskin map indoors, fed Ollie, and wrote three lines to Viggo about the old tunnels.

Entry 10, winter of year 22

Someone left a bundle of letters on the doorstep with no note. Calloway suspects Rosalind and is probably right. Vesna came by asking about the census. Calloway said nothing useful and made tea instead. Calloway closed early, walked to the Tidewatch lighthouse, and watched the lights come on. Ollie followed at a distance.

Entry 11, autumn of year 22

Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the Brine and Bell tavern. Calloway pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Calloway repaired the wax seal at the Brine and Bell tavern for Sunniva, who paid in 6 silver marks and a long story about the harvest count. Calloway won 38 silver marks from Percival on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on cold pear and blue cheese salad.