

Jasper Quenneville

Character Dossier

Competitive about everything archivist of the harbor town of Saltmarsh

Overview

Jasper Quenneville is a archivist living in the harbor town of Saltmarsh. Jasper is 34 years old, originally from the Weeping Shoals, and is known around the Old Quay as competitive about everything. In conversation Jasper compliments people before disagreeing with them.

Background

Jasper arrived in the harbor town of Saltmarsh 16 years ago after leaving the Weeping Shoals under circumstances Jasper describes differently every time. The first job was hauling for the Harbormasters' Guild; the second was the one that stuck. Today Jasper works as a archivist near Gull Street market and is paid, when paid at all, in silver marks.

Jasper learned the trade from Corvina Underhill, who still drops by unannounced. The longest-running feud in Jasper's life is with Winifred Zimmerling, over a matter neither will explain. The person Jasper trusts most is Oduya Underhill.

Current goal: to prove Winifred Zimmerling wrong about the old tunnels. Greatest fear: crowds that go quiet all at once.

Personality and speech

Temperament: competitive about everything.

Speech pattern: Jasper compliments people before disagreeing with them.

Tells: when lying, Jasper mentions Sprocket the cat for no reason.

Verified facts

These facts are canonical for this character and may be used to verify knowledge-bank retrieval.

Full name	Jasper Quenneville
Role	archivist
Home	the harbor town of Saltmarsh
Hometown	the Weeping Shoals
Age	34
Favourite dish	the tavern's peach hand pies
Pet	Sprocket, a cat

Lucky number	569
Workshop password	birch-plume
Mentor	Corvina Underhill
Rival	Winifred Zimmerling
Closest friend	Oduya Underhill

Secret

Jasper once forged a letter of passage for a stranger who turned out to be a wanted person, and still keeps the copy.

Sample dialogue

Visitor: What do you do here?

Jasper: I am the archivist. Has been that way longer than you have been asking questions.

Visitor: What is your favourite thing to eat?

Jasper: The tavern's peach hand pies. Do not tell Winifred I said so.

Visitor: Is Sprocket yours?

Jasper: Sprocket belongs to nobody. Sprocket tolerates me. Lucky number is 569, if you were about to ask.

Chronicle

Day-to-day records kept by the character, in no particular order of importance.

Entry 1, winter of year 6

Jasper repaired the bolt of linen at the Brine and Bell tavern for Matthias, who paid in 70 silver marks and a long story about the rumour of a second well. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the tax on doors. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the Brine and Bell tavern: 78 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. Hamish came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Jasper repaired the sack of salt at the Brine and Bell tavern for Thaddeus, who paid in 70 silver marks and a long story about the harvest count.

Entry 2, autumn of year 6

Rumours about the harvest count reached the Brine and Bell tavern. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. The weather turned. Jasper moved the wax seal indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the tariff on salt. Jasper won 15 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the census and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 3, summer of year 6

Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached the drydocks. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the missing shipment reached the drydocks. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Jasper won 64 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper was hired to carry a oilskin map from the drydocks to the Old Quay without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 4, winter of year 6

Jasper repaired the brass lantern at Gull Street market for Xiomara, who paid in 5 silver marks and a long story about the rumour of a second well. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Gull Street market. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Jasper won 11 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the tax on doors and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 5, winter of year 7

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. Wendeline came by asking about the tariff on salt. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Winifred came by asking about the harvest count. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. At Gull Street market, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone. At Gull Street market, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 6, autumn of year 7

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the old tunnels. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Jasper found a bolt of linen half-buried near the Old Quay and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Sunniva came by asking about the old tunnels. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 7, summer of year 7

Jasper repaired the ledger at the Old Quay for Olwen, who paid in 66 silver marks and a long story about the price of lamp oil. Jasper repaired the coil of rope at the Old Quay for Ignatius, who paid in 77 silver marks and a long story about whether the bridge will hold. At the Old Quay, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone. Jasper won 20 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 8, spring of year 7

Jasper won 21 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper closed early, walked to Gull Street market, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Jasper repaired the tin whistle at the drydocks for Fenwick, who paid in 23 silver marks and a long story about the census. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the comet. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 9, spring of year 7

Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Jasper was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the Tidewatch lighthouse to Gull Street market without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 10, winter of year 7

Jasper won 74 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about whether the bridge will hold. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. At the Brine and Bell tavern, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. Jasper found a wax seal half-buried near the Brine and Bell tavern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 11, autumn of year 7

Jasper spent the day counting stock at the drydocks: 86 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short. Jasper was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the drydocks to the Tidewatch lighthouse without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the drydocks: 48 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short.

Entry 12, summer of year 7

The weather turned. Jasper moved the copper pipe indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the old tunnels. The weather turned. Jasper moved the brass lantern indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the tax on doors. Jasper found a glass float half-buried near the drydocks and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 13, summer of year 7

Jasper repaired the copper pipe at the Brine and Bell tavern for Olwen, who paid in 34 silver marks and a long story about the rumour of a second well. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the missing shipment for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the quarantine. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the price of lamp oil. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Qadira came by asking about the new curfew. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 14, summer of year 7

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper found a tin whistle half-buried near the Brine and Bell tavern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Jasper found a clockwork bird half-buried near the Brine and Bell tavern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Jasper found a wax seal half-buried near the Brine and Bell tavern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 15, autumn of year 7

Jasper repaired the tin whistle at the Tidewatch lighthouse for Imogen, who paid in 7 silver marks and a long story about the quarantine. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the Tidewatch lighthouse: 49 of everything, except the cracked compass, which is always short. Jasper won 25 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 16, spring of year 7

Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Jasper found a tin whistle half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Jasper found a ledger half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Jasper moved the pair of spectacles indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the census. Lucienne came by asking about the singing at the docks. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 17, autumn of year 7

Jasper won 69 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. At the Tidewatch lighthouse, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. Jasper closed early, walked to the Old Quay, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance.

Entry 18, autumn of year 7

The weather turned. Jasper moved the coil of rope indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about who really won the regatta. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the tariff on salt. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Rumours about the tax on doors reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 19, spring of year 7

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the drydocks: 87 of everything, except the bolt of linen, which is always short. At the drydocks, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 20, spring of year 7

Imogen came by asking about the missing shipment. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Jasper won 5 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper found a ledger half-buried near the Brine and Bell tavern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Katarina came by asking about the new curfew. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Jasper moved the spool of wire indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about who really won the regatta.

Entry 21, spring of year 7

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper repaired the oilskin map at the drydocks for Lysander, who paid in 33 silver marks and a long story about the old tunnels. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about whether the bridge will hold. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Percival came by asking about the quarantine. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 22, autumn of year 7

Jasper closed early, walked to the Brine and Bell tavern, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Viggo came by asking about the tariff on salt. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the drydocks: 67 of everything, except the sack of salt, which is always short. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the drydocks: 22 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short.

Entry 23, autumn of year 7

Jasper closed early, walked to Gull Street market, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. The weather turned. Jasper moved the pair of spectacles indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the tax on doors. Someone left a signal flag on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Jasper repaired the clockwork bird at the Old Quay for Oduya, who paid in 88 silver marks and a long story about the missing shipment. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right.

Entry 24, winter of year 7

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper closed early, walked to the Old Quay, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Someone left a bolt of linen on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects

Oduya and is probably right. Someone left a glass float on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right.

Entry 25, winter of year 8

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Rumours about the quarantine reached Gull Street market. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 26, spring of year 8

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper was hired to carry a bundle of letters from the Tidewatch lighthouse to Gull Street market without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 27, summer of year 8

Rowan came by asking about the singing at the docks. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Rumours about the missing shipment reached Gull Street market. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 28, summer of year 8

Jasper spent the day counting stock at the Brine and Bell tavern: 53 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 29, autumn of year 8

Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. At Gull Street market, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real spool of wire from a fake one by weight alone. The weather turned. Jasper moved the iron kettle indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the quarantine. Wren came by asking about the tax on doors. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. At Gull Street market, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real sextant from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 30, autumn of year 8

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Tidewatch lighthouse; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Jasper won 50 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 31, spring of year 8

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Jasper was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from the drydocks to the Brine and Bell tavern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. The weather turned. Jasper moved the brass lantern indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the right way to mend a net. A dispute over the singing at the docks flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the drydocks; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 32, autumn of year 8

The weather turned. Jasper moved the wax seal indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about who really won the regatta. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the drydocks: 52 of everything, except the brass lantern, which is always short. Jasper won 11 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 33, summer of year 8

Rumours about the census reached Gull Street market. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Jasper closed early, walked to the Old Quay, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the harvest count. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Jasper won 71 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 34, autumn of year 8

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Jasper was hired to carry a clockwork bird from Gull Street market to the drydocks without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about the tariff on salt reached Gull Street market. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 35, autumn of year 8

A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Tidewatch lighthouse; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. At the Tidewatch lighthouse, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the Tidewatch lighthouse: 41 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 36, summer of year 8

Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Rumours about the census reached Gull Street market. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the old tunnels. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Xavier came by asking about the tariff on salt. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the quarantine. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 37, winter of year 9

Mara came by asking about the tax on doors. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Jasper repaired the bundle of letters at Gull Street market for Fenwick, who paid in 36 silver marks and a long story about the old tunnels. Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Jasper was hired to carry a brass lantern from Gull Street market to the drydocks without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 38, autumn of year 9

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the Old Quay: 77 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. The weather turned. Jasper moved the bundle of letters indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the new curfew.

Entry 39, winter of year 9

the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Jasper won 4 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the new curfew. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Kenji came by asking about the missing shipment. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 40, summer of year 9

Jasper spent the day counting stock at the Old Quay: 68 of everything, except the tin whistle, which is always short. Jasper was hired to carry a signal flag from the Old Quay to the drydocks without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper closed early, walked to the drydocks, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Jasper was hired to carry a grain scale from the Old Quay to the drydocks without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper was hired to carry a oilskin map from the Old Quay to the drydocks without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 41, autumn of year 10

Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. At the drydocks, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real coil of rope from a fake one by weight alone. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. At the drydocks, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. Jasper found a copper pipe half-buried near the drydocks and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 42, spring of year 10

A dispute over the tariff on salt flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the drydocks; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Jasper repaired the copper pipe at the drydocks for Hamish, who paid in 68 silver marks and a long story about the right way to mend a net.

Entry 43, autumn of year 10

A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Brine and Bell tavern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Osric came by asking about the comet. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Jasper closed early, walked to the Tidewatch lighthouse, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Jasper won 73 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 44, autumn of year 10

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the comet reached the Brine and Bell tavern. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Jasper found a hand bell half-buried near the Brine and Bell tavern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Jasper closed early, walked to the drydocks, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the new curfew. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 45, spring of year 10

Jasper won 85 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. At the Old Quay, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real coil of rope from a fake one by weight alone. Wren came by asking about the missing shipment. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Jasper closed early, walked to the Tidewatch lighthouse, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance.

Entry 46, winter of year 10

Jasper found a spool of wire half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Jasper moved the signal flag indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the harvest count. The weather turned. Jasper moved the tin whistle indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the price of lamp oil. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the harvest count. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 47, autumn of year 10

Jasper was hired to carry a glass float from the Old Quay to the Brine and Bell tavern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper was hired to carry a ledger from the Old Quay to the Brine and Bell tavern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Old Quay; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 48, winter of year 10

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Jasper found a sack of salt half-buried near the Brine and Bell tavern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Jasper moved the tin whistle indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the price of lamp oil. The weather turned. Jasper moved the coil of rope indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the old tunnels.

Entry 49, summer of year 11

Jasper closed early, walked to Gull Street market, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Jasper was hired to carry a coil of rope from the Brine and Bell tavern to Gull Street market without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper found a tin whistle half-buried near the Brine and Bell tavern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Jasper moved the tin whistle indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the census.

Entry 50, spring of year 11

Calloway came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Jasper repaired the sack of salt at the Old Quay for Greta, who paid in 41 silver marks and a long story about the comet.

Entry 51, spring of year 11

At Gull Street market, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. Jasper found a pair of spectacles half-buried near Gull Street market and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Jasper won 49 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached Gull Street market. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached Gull Street market. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 52, summer of year 11

Jasper repaired the oilskin map at Gull Street market for Petra, who paid in 10 silver marks and a long story about who really won the regatta. Jasper repaired the signal flag at Gull Street market for Gideon, who paid in 76 silver marks and a long story about the comet. The weather turned. Jasper moved the copper pipe indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the price of lamp oil. Jasper won 36 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper spent the day counting stock at Gull Street market: 5 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short.

Entry 53, summer of year 11

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. Rumours about the comet reached the drydocks. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Rumours about the harvest count reached the drydocks. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Jasper closed early, walked to Gull Street market, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance.

Entry 54, autumn of year 11

Jasper found a sack of salt half-buried near the drydocks and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the drydocks: 15 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached the drydocks. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Jasper closed early, walked to the Brine and Bell tavern, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Jasper closed early, walked to the Brine and Bell tavern, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance.

Entry 55, summer of year 11

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Jasper moved the tin whistle indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the quarantine. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the drydocks; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 56, summer of year 11

the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about who really won the regatta. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Jasper was hired to carry a ledger from the Brine and Bell tavern to the Old Quay without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper closed early, walked to the Old Quay, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached the Brine and Bell tavern. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 57, summer of year 11

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Caspian came by asking about the missing shipment. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Jasper moved the brass lantern indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the new curfew. Torvald came by asking about the quarantine. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. At the Tidewatch lighthouse, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real sack of salt from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 58, spring of year 11

A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the drydocks; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Jasper won 38 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the drydocks: 44 of everything, except the pair of spectacles, which is always short.

Entry 59, summer of year 11

Jasper repaired the oilskin map at the Tidewatch lighthouse for Jasper, who paid in 45 silver marks and a long story about the tariff on salt. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper was hired to carry a sack of salt from the Tidewatch lighthouse to the Old Quay without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 60, winter of year 11

Jasper spent the day counting stock at the Old Quay: 22 of everything, except the signal flag, which is always short. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Jasper repaired the signal flag at the Old Quay for Kestrel, who paid in 16 silver marks and a long story about the comet. Jasper was hired to carry a sextant from the Old Quay to the Tidewatch lighthouse without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 61, winter of year 12

A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Tidewatch lighthouse; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Jasper closed early, walked to the Old Quay, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Ysolde came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 62, autumn of year 12

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the drydocks; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Mara came by asking about the quarantine. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 63, autumn of year 12

Jasper found a wax seal half-buried near the Brine and Bell tavern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At the Brine and Bell tavern, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real hand bell from a fake one by weight alone. Jasper won 5 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper won 22 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper was hired to carry a iron kettle from the Brine and Bell tavern to Gull Street market without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 64, winter of year 12

Someone left a coil of rope on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. The weather turned. Jasper moved the hand bell indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the singing at the docks. Jasper found a hand bell half-buried near Gull Street market and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside Gull Street market; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 65, winter of year 13

A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Octavia came by asking about the price of lamp oil. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Tiberius came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 66, autumn of year 13

the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Jasper closed early, walked to the Brine and Bell tavern, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. A dispute over the rumour of a second well flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the drydocks; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 67, spring of year 13

Jasper was hired to carry a coil of rope from the Brine and Bell tavern to the Tidewatch lighthouse without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper won 33 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the tax on doors for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 68, spring of year 13

Liora came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. At the Brine and Bell tavern, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real glass float from a fake one by weight alone. Jasper was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the Brine and Bell tavern to the drydocks without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached the Brine and Bell tavern. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 69, summer of year 14

Jasper closed early, walked to the drydocks, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Jasper repaired the signal flag at Gull Street market for Quillon, who paid in 45 silver marks and a long story about the census. Someone left a tin whistle on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Jasper won 18 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about whether the bridge will hold and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper repaired the brass lantern at Gull Street market for Jorah, who paid in 81 silver marks and a long story about the singing at the docks.

Entry 70, autumn of year 14

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the harvest count for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper was hired to carry a sextant from the Tidewatch lighthouse to the Brine and Bell tavern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the quarantine. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 71, winter of year 14

Jasper found a grain scale half-buried near the Brine and Bell tavern and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Jasper moved the glass float indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the right way to mend a net. The weather turned. Jasper moved the glass float indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the missing shipment.

Entry 72, autumn of year 14

the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the rumour of a second well. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Jasper closed early, walked to the Brine and Bell tavern, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. The weather turned. Jasper moved the wax seal indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about the tariff on salt. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the right way to mend a net. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a iron kettle on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right.

Entry 73, autumn of year 14

Jasper closed early, walked to the Tidewatch lighthouse, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Tallulah came by asking about the new curfew. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Jasper won 34 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 74, summer of year 14

Jasper closed early, walked to the Tidewatch lighthouse, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper repaired the spool of wire at the drydocks for Lysander, who paid in 49 silver marks and a long story about the new curfew. Jasper won 44 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the rumour of a second well and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper was hired to carry a ledger from the drydocks to the Tidewatch lighthouse without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 75, summer of year 14

At Gull Street market, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real grain scale from a fake one by weight alone. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. At Gull Street market, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Rosalind came by asking about the quarantine. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Jasper repaired the cracked compass at Gull Street market for Quillon, who paid in 87 silver marks and a long story about the harvest count.

Entry 76, winter of year 14

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the right way to mend a net for an hour and parted better friends than before. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper was hired to carry a brass lantern from Gull Street market to the Brine and Bell tavern without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 77, winter of year 14

Jasper won 65 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper was hired to carry a hand bell from Gull Street market to the Old Quay without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper won 41 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about who really won the regatta and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 78, winter of year 14

Jasper found a ledger half-buried near Gull Street market and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Jasper spent the day counting stock at Gull Street market: 83 of everything, except the bundle of letters, which is always short. Jasper found a glass float half-buried near Gull Street market and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the census for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 79, autumn of year 14

Jasper was hired to carry a ledger from the Brine and Bell tavern to the Tidewatch lighthouse without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the Brine and Bell tavern: 20 of everything, except the oilskin map, which is always short. Jasper won 76 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the singing at the docks and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 80, summer of year 14

At the Old Quay, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Jasper found a sack of salt half-buried near the Old Quay and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached the Old Quay. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 81, autumn of year 14

A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Old Quay; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Zora came by asking about the old tunnels. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Jasper won 61 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 82, summer of year 14

Jasper spent the day counting stock at Gull Street market: 30 of everything, except the wax seal, which is always short. Jasper closed early, walked to the drydocks, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Rumours about the price of lamp oil reached Gull Street market. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 83, summer of year 14

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the singing at the docks for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Tidewatch lighthouse; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Nkechi came by asking about the tax on doors. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. Seraphine came by asking about the new curfew. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 84, spring of year 14

Jasper closed early, walked to the drydocks, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. Jasper repaired the bundle of letters at the Tidewatch lighthouse for Viggo, who paid in 61 silver marks and a long story about who really won the regatta. Rumours about the rumour of a second well reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Jasper was hired to carry a sextant from the Tidewatch lighthouse to the drydocks without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 85, winter of year 14

Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the comet for an hour and parted better friends than before. Jasper was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the drydocks to the Old Quay without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. At the drydocks, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real tin whistle from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about the tax on doors reached the drydocks. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 86, summer of year 14

Jasper was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the drydocks to Gull Street market without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Gustav came by asking about the harvest count. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the quarantine. Jasper read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a clockwork bird on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right.

Entry 87, spring of year 14

Jasper found a grain scale half-buried near Gull Street market and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a oilskin map on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Jasper won 70 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.

Entry 88, summer of year 14

Someone left a grain scale on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. At the Old Quay, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Old Quay; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 89, summer of year 14

Jasper won 82 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the census and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper won 49 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the census and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Tomasz came by asking about the comet. Jasper said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 90, autumn of year 14

Rumours about the missing shipment reached the Old Quay. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Old Quay; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Jasper moved the signal flag indoors, fed Sprocket, and wrote three lines to Corvina about whether the bridge will hold.

Entry 91, autumn of year 14

Jasper found a iron kettle half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Jasper spent the day counting stock at the Tidewatch lighthouse: 78 of everything, except the sextant, which is always short. Jasper was hired to carry a hand bell from the Tidewatch lighthouse to the drydocks without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper repaired the pair of spectacles at the Tidewatch lighthouse for Xanthe, who paid in 55 silver marks and a long story about the tariff on salt. Rumours about the singing at the docks reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 92, summer of year 14

Jasper repaired the grain scale at the Old Quay for Matthias, who paid in 44 silver marks and a long story about the quarantine. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Old Quay; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Old Quay; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 93, summer of year 15

At the Tidewatch lighthouse, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real glass float from a fake one by weight alone. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Tidewatch lighthouse; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Jasper found a spool of wire half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 94, autumn of year 15

Jasper was hired to carry a sack of salt from the Old Quay to the Brine and Bell tavern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper won 22 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Corvina visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over the harvest count flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Old Quay; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 95, winter of year 15

Jasper was hired to carry a wax seal from the Old Quay to the Brine and Bell tavern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Jasper won 19 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies. Jasper closed early, walked to the Brine and Bell tavern, and watched the lights come on. Sprocket followed at a distance. A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Jasper and Winifred outside the Old Quay; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Jasper for the password to the workshop. Jasper laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 96, autumn of year 15

Rumours about the comet reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At the Tidewatch lighthouse, Jasper taught Oduya how to tell a real ledger from a fake one by weight alone. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Jasper pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Someone left a hand bell on the doorstep with no note. Jasper suspects Oduya and is probably right. Jasper won 44 silver marks from Winifred on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on the tavern's peach hand pies.