

Amadou Lindqvist

Character Dossier

Shy, brilliant and defensive chandler of the harbor town of Saltmarsh

Overview

Amadou Lindqvist is a chandler living in the harbor town of Saltmarsh. Amadou is 28 years old, originally from Kettering, and is known around the Old Quay as shy, brilliant and defensive. In conversation Amadou speaks softly and expects people to lean in.

Background

Amadou arrived in the harbor town of Saltmarsh 26 years ago after leaving Kettering under circumstances Amadou describes differently every time. The first job was hauling for the Harbormasters' Guild; the second was the one that stuck. Today Amadou works as a chandler near Gull Street market and is paid, when paid at all, in silver marks.

Amadou learned the trade from Tiberius Okonkwo, who still drops by unannounced. The longest-running feud in Amadou's life is with Noor Thornbury, over a matter neither will explain. The person Amadou trusts most is Tomasz Nightingale.

Current goal: to map every path through the Old Quay. Greatest fear: losing their sense of smell.

Personality and speech

Temperament: shy, brilliant and defensive.

Speech pattern: Amadou speaks softly and expects people to lean in.

Tells: when lying, Amadou mentions Sable the goat for no reason.

Verified facts

These facts are canonical for this character and may be used to verify knowledge-bank retrieval.

Full name	Amadou Lindqvist
Role	chandler
Home	the harbor town of Saltmarsh
Hometown	Kettering
Age	28
Favourite dish	hand-rolled ginger duck
Pet	Sable, a goat
Lucky number	744

Workshop password	granite-indigo
Mentor	Tiberius Okonkwo
Rival	Noor Thornbury
Closest friend	Tomasz Nightingale

Secret

Amadou once turned down an offer from the Harbormasters' Guild that would have made them rich, and wonders about it nightly.

Sample dialogue

Visitor: What do you do here?

Amadou: I am the Chandler. Has been that way longer than you have been asking questions.

Visitor: What is your favourite thing to eat?

Amadou: Hand-rolled ginger duck. Do not tell Noor I said so.

Visitor: Is Sable yours?

Amadou: Sable belongs to nobody. Sable tolerates me. Lucky number is 744, if you were about to ask.

Chronicle

Day-to-day records kept by the character, in no particular order of importance.

Entry 1, summer of year 10

A stranger asked Amadou for the password to the workshop. Amadou laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Amadou won 44 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck. Amadou won 72 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck. A stranger asked Amadou for the password to the workshop. Amadou laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 2, summer of year 10

At the Old Quay, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone. Ulla came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead. Someone left a sextant on the doorstep with no note. Amadou suspects Tomasz and is probably right. A dispute over the quarantine flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the Old Quay; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 3, winter of year 10

The weather turned. Amadou moved the hand bell indoors, fed Sable, and wrote three lines to Tiberius about the old tunnels. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached the Old Quay. Amadou pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the census flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the Old Quay; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 4, summer of year 10

Someone left a spool of wire on the doorstep with no note. Amadou suspects Tomasz and is probably right. At the Brine and Bell tavern, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real bundle of letters from a fake one by weight alone. A stranger asked Amadou for the password to the workshop. Amadou laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 5, spring of year 10

The weather turned. Amadou moved the tin whistle indoors, fed Sable, and wrote three lines to Tiberius about the tax on doors. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the Tidewatch lighthouse; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Amadou spent the day counting stock at the Tidewatch lighthouse: 22 of everything, except the spool of wire, which is always short. Amadou was hired to carry a wax seal from the Tidewatch lighthouse to the Old Quay without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Amadou repaired the tin whistle at the Tidewatch lighthouse for Quentin, who paid in 18 silver marks and a long story about the old tunnels.

Entry 6, summer of year 10

Dashiell came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead. A stranger asked Amadou for the password to the workshop. Amadou laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Amadou moved the signal flag indoors, fed Sable, and wrote three lines to Tiberius about the new curfew. Amadou won 9 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the census and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck.

Entry 7, autumn of year 10

At the Old Quay, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real iron kettle from a fake one by weight alone. The weather turned. Amadou moved the signal flag indoors, fed Sable, and wrote three lines to Tiberius about the harvest count. At the Old Quay, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real cracked compass from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 8, spring of year 10

Amadou won 86 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the old tunnels and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck. Amadou won 6 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck. Amadou found a coil of rope half-buried near the drydocks and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Amadou repaired the spool of wire at the drydocks for Soren, who paid in 80 silver marks and a long story about the singing at the docks. Tiberius visited unannounced. They argued about who really won the regatta for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 9, summer of year 10

Amadou was hired to carry a pair of spectacles from Gull Street market to the Brine and Bell tavern without opening it, and mostly succeeded. At Gull Street market, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. Amadou found a iron kettle half-buried near Gull Street market and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. The weather turned. Amadou moved the copper pipe indoors, fed Sable, and wrote three lines to Tiberius about the missing shipment. At Gull Street market, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real cracked compass from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 10, spring of year 10

A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Amadou and Noor outside Gull Street market; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about the census reached Gull Street market. Amadou pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Ysolde came by asking about the comet. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead. At Gull Street market, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 11, autumn of year 10

Mara came by asking about whether the bridge will hold. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the tax on doors. Amadou read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. The weather turned. Amadou moved the tin whistle indoors, fed Sable, and wrote three lines to Tiberius about the census.

Entry 12, autumn of year 10

Matthias came by asking about who really won the regatta. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead. Amadou closed early, walked to Gull Street market, and watched the lights come on. Sable followed at a distance. Rumours about the right way to mend a net reached the Old Quay. Amadou pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 13, winter of year 11

A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the Tidewatch lighthouse; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Amadou found a tin whistle half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Amadou found a bundle of letters half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it.

Entry 14, winter of year 11

A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Amadou and Noor outside Gull Street market; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A dispute over the price of lamp oil flared up between Amadou and Noor outside Gull Street market; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Amadou won 77 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the quarantine and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck.

Entry 15, winter of year 11

Tiberius visited unannounced. They argued about whether the bridge will hold for an hour and parted better friends than before. Noor came by asking about the right way to mend a net. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead. Tiberius visited unannounced. They argued about the tariff on salt for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 16, spring of year 11

Rumours about the tax on doors reached the Brine and Bell tavern. Amadou pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. Oduya came by asking about the tariff on salt. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the census. Amadou read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the Brine and Bell tavern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding.

Entry 17, autumn of year 12

Amadou spent the day counting stock at the Brine and Bell tavern: 5 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. Amadou won 54 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the new curfew and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck. Amadou spent the day counting stock at the Brine and Bell tavern: 67 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. Amadou won 5 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the census and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck.

Entry 18, autumn of year 12

A stranger asked Amadou for the password to the workshop. Amadou laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Tiberius visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before. Amadou found a pair of spectacles half-buried near Gull Street market and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the harvest count. Amadou read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table.

Entry 19, spring of year 12

the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the singing at the docks. Amadou read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Amadou found a glass float half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Amadou found a hand bell half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Amadou was hired to carry a sack of salt from the Tidewatch lighthouse to the Brine and Bell tavern without opening it, and mostly succeeded.

Entry 20, autumn of year 12

Zubair came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead. Amadou won 63 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the tariff on salt and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck. The weather turned. Amadou moved the pair of spectacles indoors, fed Sable, and wrote three lines to Tiberius about the comet. Amadou won 67 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck. Amadou repaired the clockwork bird at the Old Quay for Astrid, who paid in 25 silver marks and a long story about the rumour of a second well.

Entry 21, autumn of year 13

the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the census. Amadou read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Amadou suspects Tomasz and is probably right. At the Tidewatch lighthouse, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real brass lantern from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 22, winter of year 13

Amadou spent the day counting stock at the Old Quay: 62 of everything, except the copper pipe, which is always short. Amadou won 68 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the comet and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck. A stranger asked Amadou for the password to the workshop. Amadou laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not.

Entry 23, spring of year 13

Tiberius visited unannounced. They argued about the new curfew for an hour and parted better friends than before. Amadou won 22 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the price of lamp oil and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck. The weather turned. Amadou moved the glass float indoors, fed Sable, and wrote three lines to Tiberius about the tariff on salt.

Entry 24, summer of year 13

Tiberius visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. Amadou repaired the wax seal at the drydocks for Lucienne, who paid in 41 silver marks and a long story about the quarantine. At the drydocks, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real clockwork bird from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 25, winter of year 14

Amadou won 30 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck. Amadou found a tin whistle half-buried near the Old Quay and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Someone left a cracked compass on the doorstep with no note. Amadou suspects Tomasz and is probably right.

Entry 26, winter of year 14

Amadou repaired the copper pipe at the Brine and Bell tavern for Ingrid, who paid in 11 silver marks and a long story about the singing at the docks. Tiberius visited unannounced. They argued about the quarantine for an hour and parted better friends than before. the Harbormasters' Guild sent a notice about the census. Amadou read it twice, folded it into a square and used it to level a table. Amadou was hired to carry a cracked compass from the Brine and Bell tavern to Gull Street market without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Olwen came by asking about the census. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 27, autumn of year 14

A dispute over the comet flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the drydocks; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Amadou was hired to carry a clockwork bird from the drydocks to the Tidewatch lighthouse without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A stranger asked Amadou for the password to the workshop. Amadou laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Tiberius visited unannounced. They argued about the old tunnels for an hour and parted better friends than before.

Entry 28, summer of year 14

At Gull Street market, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real wax seal from a fake one by weight alone. Amadou found a sextant half-buried near Gull Street market and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. At Gull Street market, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real bolt of linen from a fake one by weight alone. Amadou won 81 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the missing shipment and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck.

Entry 29, spring of year 15

A stranger asked Amadou for the password to the workshop. Amadou laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Amadou was hired to carry a glass float from the Brine and Bell tavern to the Old Quay without opening it, and mostly succeeded. A dispute over who really won the regatta flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the Brine and Bell tavern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. A stranger asked Amadou for the password to the workshop. Amadou laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Amadou repaired the coil of rope at the Brine and Bell tavern for Dorothea, who paid in 9 silver marks and a long story about who really won the regatta.

Entry 30, spring of year 15

Someone left a sack of salt on the doorstep with no note. Amadou suspects Tomasz and is probably right. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the drydocks; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Tiberius visited unannounced. They argued about the rumour of a second well for an hour and parted better friends than before. A dispute over whether the bridge will hold flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the drydocks; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Amadou won 57 silver marks from Noor on a bet about the right way to mend a net and spent all of it on hand-rolled ginger duck.

Entry 31, summer of year 15

A stranger asked Amadou for the password to the workshop. Amadou laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. Someone left a pair of spectacles on the doorstep with no note. Amadou suspects Tomasz and is probably right. At the Brine and Bell tavern, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real oilskin map from a fake one by weight alone.

Entry 32, winter of year 15

Amadou was hired to carry a bundle of letters from Gull Street market to the Tidewatch lighthouse without opening it, and mostly succeeded. Amadou spent the day counting stock at Gull Street market: 52 of everything, except the coil of rope, which is always short. Imogen came by asking about the singing at the docks. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 33, summer of year 15

Rumours about the tax on doors reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Amadou pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. A dispute over the missing shipment flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the Tidewatch lighthouse; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Someone left a copper pipe on the doorstep with no note. Amadou suspects Tomasz and is probably right. A dispute over the old tunnels flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the Tidewatch lighthouse; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Rumours about who really won the regatta reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Amadou pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it.

Entry 34, autumn of year 15

Someone left a bundle of letters on the doorstep with no note. Amadou suspects Tomasz and is probably right. Amadou closed early, walked to the drydocks, and watched the lights come on. Sable followed at a distance. Rumours about the old tunnels reached the Tidewatch lighthouse. Amadou pretended not to care and then asked everyone about it. At the Tidewatch lighthouse, Amadou taught Tomasz how to tell a real signal flag from a fake one by weight alone. Amadou closed early, walked to the drydocks, and watched the lights come on. Sable followed at a distance.

Entry 35, autumn of year 15

Amadou found a glass float half-buried near the Tidewatch lighthouse and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Amadou spent the day counting stock at the Tidewatch lighthouse: 78 of everything, except the ledger, which is always short. Amadou repaired the oilskin map at the Tidewatch lighthouse for Vesna, who paid in 20 silver marks and a long story about the missing shipment. Emeric came by asking about the old tunnels. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead. Brigid came by asking about the rumour of a second well. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead.

Entry 36, spring of year 15

A dispute over the tax on doors flared up between Amadou and Noor outside the drydocks; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Amadou moved the brass lantern indoors, fed Sable, and wrote three lines to Tiberius about the missing shipment. Someone left a wax seal on the doorstep with no note. Amadou suspects Tomasz and is probably right.

Entry 37, summer of year 16

Amadou found a grain scale half-buried near Gull Street market and spent the evening trying to work out who had lost it. Soren came by asking about the new curfew. Amadou said nothing useful and made tea instead. The weather turned. Amadou moved the coil of rope indoors, fed Sable, and wrote three lines to Tiberius about the right way to mend a net.