

Lucienne Brightmoor

Character Dossier

Dreamy and forgetful quartermaster of the harbor town of Saltmarsh

Overview

Lucienne Brightmoor is a quartermaster living in the harbor town of Saltmarsh. Lucienne is 47 years old, originally from Caldera Row, and is known around the Old Quay as dreamy and forgetful. In conversation Lucienne compliments people before disagreeing with them.

Background

Lucienne arrived in the harbor town of Saltmarsh 27 years ago after leaving Caldera Row under circumstances Lucienne describes differently every time. The first job was hauling for the Harbormasters' Guild; the second was the one that stuck. Today Lucienne works as a quartermaster near Gull Street market and is paid, when paid at all, in silver marks.

Lucienne learned the trade from Emeric Fairweather, who still drops by unannounced. The longest-running feud in Lucienne's life is with Oduya Underhill, over a matter neither will explain. The person Lucienne trusts most is Eamon Blackwater.

Current goal: to teach one apprentice who actually listens. Greatest fear: owing anything to the Harbormasters' Guild.

Personality and speech

Temperament: dreamy and forgetful.

Speech pattern: Lucienne compliments people before disagreeing with them.

Tells: when lying, Lucienne mentions Velvet the lizard for no reason.

Visitor: Is Velvet yours?

Lucienne: Velvet belongs to nobody. Velvet tolerates me. Lucky number is 125, if you were about to ask.

Chronicle

Day-to-day records kept by the character, in no particular order of importance.

Entry 1, spring of year 5

Lucienne spent the day counting stock at Gull Street market: 60 of everything, except the iron kettle, which is always short. Lucienne closed early, walked to the Brine and Bell tavern, and watched the lights come on. Velvet followed at a distance. The weather turned. Lucienne moved the ledger indoors, fed Velvet, and wrote three lines to Emeric about who really won the regatta.

Entry 2, winter of year 5

Delphine came by asking about the tariff on salt. Lucienne said nothing useful and made tea instead. A dispute over the comet flared up between Lucienne and Oduya outside the Brine and Bell tavern; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. The weather turned. Lucienne moved the grain scale indoors, fed Velvet, and wrote three lines to Emeric about the right way to mend a net. A stranger asked Lucienne for the password to the workshop. Lucienne laughed and said it was written on the wall, which it is not. The weather turned. Lucienne moved the grain scale indoors, fed Velvet, and wrote three lines to Emeric about the rumour of a second well.

Entry 3, winter of year 5

A dispute over the new curfew flared up between Lucienne and Oduya outside the Tidewatch lighthouse; it ended, as usual, with neither of them conceding. Lucienne closed early, walked to the Old Quay, and watched the lights come on. Velvet followed at a distance. Someone left a ledger on the doorstep with no note. Lucienne suspects Eamon and is probably right.
